Caverion Finland acquires Roxia Automation and strengthens its position as a service provider for industrial automation in Finland

Caverion and Roxia Oy have signed an agreement whereby Caverion Suomi Oy acquires the entire share capital of Roxia Automation Oy, a subsidiary of Roxia, previously known as Polar-Automaatio. Acquisition is completed on 1 July 2025. Polar-Automaatio's net sales in 2024 amounted to approximately EUR 7 million and the company has 47 employees.

With the acquisition, Caverion further strengthens its position as a service provider for comprehensive industrial automation solutions in Finland. The acquired company will continue to operate as a subsidiary of Caverion under the previous name Polar-Automaatio.

Polar-Automaatio manages the entire life cycle of industrial automation with services from planning to implementation including maintenance, electrical installations, remote support, spare part management and ensuring operational capability. The company serves multiple customers in Finland in the metal, mining, forest, energy, chemical, paper and marine industries.

“Polar-Automaatio's employees have a high competence profile and are known for their strong expertise. The company's management is experienced and has been with the company for a long time. Polar-Automaatio fits perfectly into Caverion's growth strategy and service portfolio. We warmly welcome

Polar-Automaatio's employees to Caverion and are proud to expand our team of highly skilled professionals. We also look forward to continuing the strong cooperation with the customers, ensuring a smooth transition", says Jussi Lehtonen, Vice President Strategy at Caverion Finland.

"Roxia's core business, according to our updated strategy, is in industrial filter solutions. I am very pleased that Polar-Automaatio and industrial automation solutions can continue to grow and have the opportunity to under Caverion Finland's ownership and management", says Matti Riihimäki, CEO at Roxia Oy.
